ADP Talent Management has transformed our recruiting process. Having everything in one place is a game changer where we can focus on our future and current employees, helping them succeed in our organization.

Kerri Fama, director of human resources, Ironwood Physicians, PC

We are currently using the talent module in one of our entities. We're really impressed with how it's working, and how well it integrates with the payroll and benefits modules. It has really helped improve our onboarding and the look and feel of our recruitment website is state of the art.

Connie Stahnke, VPHR,
Duininck Companies

ADP offered the features and functionality for us to deploy performance management at an individual goal-setting level. It helps [employees] see that, at an individual level, they can help support revenue growth or client retention or their own employee experience. All of those things become the framework of a successful organization.

Lisa Harling, payroll manager,
IQN/Beeline

Automating our talent management process has saved HR and managers a lot of time. Managers report they have more time to focus on their core job because of the ADP solutions, and HR no longer has to track paper forms which has saved us a lot of time.

Sarah Garcia, director, HR,
DoubleDown Interactive

We're increasing touch points with ADP's recruitment management. We were able to set up emails that automatically go out. We can text our candidates. We can utilize social media. We're very big into using Twitter, LinkedIn and Facebook, and now with that product, we can enhance that entire process. ADP helps us be strategic in sourcing talent. That way we're ahead of the game, and not behind the eight ball, when we're looking for people.

Jessica Larson, senior vice president of HR, CDI
