

Stay safe and informed with ADP®

ADP understands how important it is to keep your employees informed and safe while staying on top of regulation changes due to COVID-19. We're here to help you stay informed, navigate working from home and returning to the office by addressing your toughest HCM challenges while helping you stay compliant.

Hear from some of our clients about how open communication and our online solutions have helped them navigate workplace changes:

ADP is here to help with everything you need to navigate the challenges you and your workforce are facing with these employer resources:

- ADP Employer Preparedness Toolkit
- Employee Communications Toolkit
- On-demand Webinars and Upcoming Presentations

Learn how ADP can help you navigate the way forward by visiting adp.com/forward

ADP keeps me up to date on what other companies are doing. Their recommendations for openly communicating with employees ensure that our workers know we are taking their safety seriously.

Christine Clark, senior payroll manager, Scientific Games Corporation

We currently have quite a few hybrid employees, so accessibility is very important. ADP has helped with the transition by being accessible for employees both in and out of the office.

Barbara Giffin, HR generalist, High Plains Library District

ADP has been quick to provide updates regarding employee retention credits due to all of the COVID relief packages. Their easy-to-read compliance and governmental updates via the SPARK Newsletter and the Eye on Washington emails are great and include nice, shareable infographics!

Brianna Borman, payroll specialist, EMP SERV LLC

ADP's new email templates and tips for return to work keep employees engaged while working from home.

Angelina Edmond, payroll, Destination XL Group, Inc.

Even in a pandemic, ADP continues to do what they always do — make sure the payroll gets processed right.

Jeanine Bogdanovski, corp payroll manager, AAR Corp

ADP consistently provides helpful information to sustain a safe work environment.

Evrette Walcott, payroll supervisor 11, 61st Street Service Corporation