A new year brings new challenges

I am the owner/operator of AAMCO Transmissions in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. I've owned the AAMCO since January 1, 2020. The first year of owning any business can be a challenge. Taking ownership and dealing with COVID-19 during your first year of business is something I wouldn't wish on anyone. I'm coming to the end of my first year and I'm hoping 2021 is better for everyone.

Expert support rolls on

I will say if there was any bright spot, it was my decision to team up with ADP for my payroll and workers' compensation (through ADP's affiliate, Automatic Data Process Insurance Agency, Inc. (ADPIA)). ADP has been extremely helpful navigating me through my first year. With all the challenges I faced, payroll was the least of my worries. My ADP representative, Joe Putignano, was always there to answer any questions or issues I had. If he couldn't answer it, an ADP team member was right there to help.

Advice for other auto repair owners

If I could give any new or existing AAMCO owner any advice, it would be to team up with ADP. You won't regret it.
